

James Colleary
President
Associated Air Center

James Colleary was appointed President, Associated Air Center (AAC) in 2014. AAC is StandardAero's Transport Category WWIP completion center located in Dallas, Texas. AAC is the global leader in BBJ completions and the most experienced company in the industry providing narrow body and wide body completions, as well as MRO services. Colleary reports directly to the CEO of StandardAero and serves as a member of the company's Executive Leadership Team.

Colleary joined StandardAero in 2005 as Vice President, Supply Chain and most recently served as Chief Operating Officer for AAC. Prior to that, he worked at Honeywell Aerospace as Director of the Commercial APU product line. In addition, Colleary spent 15 years at GE Aircraft Engines Services in a variety of increasingly responsible positions including Vice President of Component repair. In his current role, Colleary leads all activities at AAC's vertically-integrated, state-of-the-art facility providing world-class interior design, engineering and completion capabilities, engine and airframe MRO and ODA certification authority to customers around the world.

Colleary holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Materials Management from Wright State University and an MBA from University of Phoenix. He is Six Sigma Green Belt Certified, holds a Black Belt leadership certification and is Shingijutsu certified in Lean Applications.

StandardAero is one of the world's largest independent providers of services, including engine and airframe maintenance, repair and overhaul, engine component repair, engineering services, interior completions and paint applications. The company is a global enterprise that employs nearly 4,000 employees worldwide with annual revenues exceeding $1.8 billion. StandardAero serves a diverse array of customers in business and general aviation, airline, military, helicopter, components, energy and VIP completions markets. The company celebrated its 100th year of industry leadership in 2011. StandardAero is owned by and partnered with Veritas Capital, a leading private equity firm headquartered in New York City.

www.standardaero.com